Roundtable Starts With Presentation on Racial Wealth Gap

Household wealth is driven by home equity. The rising racial wealth gap is a result of the lack of minority home equity. There is a national shortage of quality affordable housing that is impacting the rising racial wealth gap that is driven by home equity. While banks are increasing their outreach efforts for home lending to minority home buyers, minorities still account for less than 10% of their home lending on average. This lack of minority home lending is due to lack of quality affordable housing inventory that is driven by the lack of minority led and focused nonprofit (and for profit) home builders. Construction capital is the fuel to building affordable housing yet there is a lack of access to construction capital for minority home builders. This roundtable brings in banks, regulators and affordable housing nonprofits to discuss the current and future of affordable housing access and how to create increased access to construction capital to minority affordable home builders to meet the demand for high quality affordable housing

10:15-11:50

Developing Legal Structures and Contracts That Protect The Organizations Construction Process & Assets

Panelist:

The Trent Cotney Law Construction Group

Construction Focused Attorneys: Trent Cotney, Daniel Auerbach, David Keel, Roscoe Green

It is critical for affordable housing developers to create and maintain legal structures that protect their businesses, as well as their assets and finances, in order to safeguard their continued financial viability. This course is designed to provide affordable housing developers with an overview of such legal structures and components. Namely, the seminar will focus on pertinent construction contract provisions that developers should include in their contracts, means and methods of securing assets and finances, and ideas for limiting legal exposure to such issues as: proper payment issues, employment claims, OSHA violations, project delays, and permitting and code issues. The seminar will also provide insight on how housing developers can best maintain such legal structures to ensure a timely completed and superior product.

Trent Cotney, P.A. is a national construction law firm currently with seven offices located throughout Florida, Nashville, Tennessee and Mobile, Alabama with its main office in Tampa, Florida. Specializing in the representation of businesses and professionals in construction disputes and transactions, Trent Cotney is a well-known advisor and legal counsel for the construction industry. The firm's practice areas include construction law, litigation, arbitration, contract review, immigration, employment, contract drafting, OSHA defense, licensing defense, bid protests, lien law, bond law and alternative dispute resolution.

Karl Nurse (Councilmember, City of St. Petersburg)

Panelist: Baltimore African American Home Builders Cooperative, Baltimore Community Lending, National Community Stabilization Trust, City of St. Petersburg, Chris Rockey (PNC Bank, Market Manager, Greater Maryland Community Development Banking), Monica Mitchell (Vice President, Community Development Officer Maryland & Greater Washington DC Regions)

City of Baltimore:

Baltimore African American leaders come together to form the Baltimore African American Home Builders Cooperative that unites both African American nonprofits and for profit home builders to allow them to cooperatively leverage their building, purchasing and intellectual bandwidth that will lead to the increased number of African American affordable home builders in the Baltimore region that will result in increased African American home ownership and household wealth that positively impacts the rising racial wealth gap. The Cooperative created a formal partnership with Baltimore Community Lending CDFI (BCL) to develop and launch the Baltimore African American Home Equity Development Fund that provides construction capital to targeted zip codes while providing a structured lending program that targets development of market based (profit oriented) affordable home builder skill sets for both the nonprofit and for profit affordable home builders.

City of St. Petersburg:

A city of St. Petersburg councilmember and the Neighborhood Affairs Coordinator bring together nonprofit affordable home builders to launch the City of St. Pete Affordable Home Builders Coalition. The primary mission of the Coalition is to target ground up housing development in a predominate African American low moderate income area that will lead to increased home values that increased racial household wealth that results in increased social, economic and political power. The city of St. Petersburg provides the Coalition members with: 1) “first look” purchasing opportunities with the hundreds of in fill lot opportunities in the target development area, 2) an online dedicated portal for Coalition members to target lot acquisitions and coordinate the build out of cluster of homes to maximize the opportunity to increase home values, 3) development of “model” homes that will allow for the nonprofit home builders to obtain ground up building permits in days as compared to months with current cities

Rebuild Puerto Rico:

HOSTED BY:

National Puerto Rican Leadership Council & Education Fund
National Hispanic Construction Association
Wesly Chapel Nissan

REBUILD PUERTO RICO Minority Construction Data Base:

Minority Construction Online Company Data Base & Portal To Connect Puerto Rico Local Home Owners & Mayors With Skilled Minority Owned & Operated Construction Companies Who Wish To Help REBUILD PUERTO RICO Housing To Be Unveiled At National Minority Affordable Home Builders Summit

Juan Ramos (President, Remodel & More Inc-Humacao, Puerto Rico)

Juan Ramos, coming from Puerto Rico and a housing builder in Humacao-Palmas Del Mar region that was hit hard from the eye of Hurricane Maria, will discuss current state of housing in Puerto Rico and what is needed to REBUILD PUERTO RICO housing. REBUILD PUERTO RICO workshop (agenda below) will include a national data base (via an online internet portal managed by the National Hispanic Construction Association) of minority owned and operated general contractors, subcontractors and suppliers who wish to do work in Puerto Rico that will be made available to home owners, businesses and local mayors in Puerto Rico to address the massive shortage of skilled housing workers in Puerto Rico. All companies that are part of this housing data base must agree to hire local Puerto Rico labor and skilled workers to provide jobs to the local economy. Puerto Rico government & FEMA Officials have been given invitation to attend REBUILD PUERTO RICO.

Bringing Skilled Construction Workers To Puerto Rico:

The #1 need to rebuild devastated Puerto Rico are skilled construction workers that they lack in thousands. From General Contractors to plumbers, electricians, demo companies to much more....Puerto Rico currently lack in mass, skilled construction workers. The National Hispanic Construction Association joins as host of REBUILD Puerto Rico to help address this critical issue. Puerto Rican Nissan Dealership owner Jay Rosario joins the host committee to head up how to bring access to vehicle transportation for these skilled workers.

Non-Profit Affordable Housing Developers, Builders, General Contractors, Puerto Rico Government Officials, National Construction Associations, Key Banks, Puerto Rican Associations, Construction Material Suppliers come together for a roundtable to discuss how to work together to bring U.S. based affordable housing builders-developers and suppliers to Puerto Rico to help in the REBUILDING OF PUERTO RICO. With over 50% of all Puerto Rico housing damaged, it will be critical to import general contractors, sub-contractors, affordable housing builders-developers and suppliers to Puerto Rico. Affordable Housing industry leaders and Puerto Rico officials come together to discuss how to bring affordable housing talent and construction building materials to Puerto Rico.
